PITTSBURGH – (January 17, 2018) -- Compassionate Certification Centers™, a national medical cannabis healthcare network, will host a ribbon cutting ceremony for its new office in Butler at 10 a.m. on Friday, January 26, at 127 East Cunningham St., Suite 101, in Butler, Pennsylvania.

The ceremony will be presided over by Compassionate Certification Centers' co-founders Dr. Bryan Doner and Melonie Kotchey. State Representative Brian Ellis and Butler County Board of Commissioners Leslie Osche, Kim Geyer, and Kevin E. Boozel are also scheduled to attend the event.

"I am a strong advocate for options, especially when it comes to healthcare decisions for individuals and families. I am honored to be a part of this ribbon cutting ceremony at CCC in Butler. We are here to usher in a new year and a new era where medical cannabis alternatives are a legal option for Pennsylvanians," stated Rep. Ellis.

The office provides medical cannabis certifications and evaluations, as well as guidance and continued treatment care for eligible patients who have been diagnosed with one of 17 state qualifying conditions.

Dr. Anu Anand a board-certified specialist in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation will oversee the office which received extensive renovations in the fall of 2017, before officially opening its doors in December.

"My specialty in rehab medicine puts me in front of many patients with chronic pain and neurological diseases that don't always improve with conventional therapy. Medical marijuana has been shown to have multiple therapeutic properties with few side effects, hence being a great alternative for this patient population," explained Dr. Anand.

It is estimated that nearly 200,000 patients are able to qualify for Pennsylvania medical marijuana cards, with a growing waiting list for Dr. Anand and her staff.

Compassionate Certification Centers specializes in medical cannabis with locations throughout Pennsylvania. It's diverse list of physicians have backgrounds in: pain management, oncology, neurology, pediatrics, gastroenterology, immunology, primary care, rehabilitation, emergency medicine, and more.
